

The green Wave will generate 2 kinds of spaces and then, 2 different ways of using those public spaces. The upper part, on top of the green roof will allow public to practice outside sports, even practicing skiing in winter if the conditions are good enough. Under the big reservoirs of the elevated water tanks there is a modulated macro structure that could be use for indoor events or even to generate a big water resort with swimming pools and other water entertainments. The artificial topography of the green wave could be used as well as space for concerts and events, where the audience could enjoy the performance in a kind of natural terraces giving better conditions for viewing and listening than in a flat piece of land.
