

ECOSYSTEM OF ENERGY

An ecosystem for the propagation of a garden is created through an infrastructure of three energy harvesters. Through this system, energy can be collected and generated continuously throughout the day even if an energy source such as sunlight is unavailable. The energy collected and produced can then be used to power the LED lighting for the structure, stored for future use, or rechanneled to an energy grid.

