

The top of each wing is linked to a supporting beam with springs that have different levels of elasticity. Thus each wing moves in a different way than its neighbour wing. This results in an ever changing façade that responds to its surrounding environmental conditions.

The efforts to re-imagine the site are targeted to attract people and inspire them to develop a more sustainable lifestyle.

